SPECIAL DIESEL NUMBER of THE AUTOMOBILE ENGINEER

JUNE, 1938

This special, enlarged issue is in itself an essential reference work to all engaged in the design, production and use of Diesel engines for land, air and marine transport.

Developments and improvements of the past year are surveyed in detail.

Specifications and data relating to 188 British and 386 foreign engines from particulars supplied by 106 manufacturers, constitute an exclusive feature. The whole issue is splendidly illustrated from photographs and diagrams.
